President's Message

Dear Colleagues,

The last six months have been eventful for the IAC. It was indeed remarkable that the largest contingent of more than 30 delegates from a single country that attended the International Cytology Congress at Edinburgh, was from the Indian Academy. Apart from several nice things, including the fantastic arrangements at EICC Edinburgh, we all must feel proud that IAC was given an opportunity to showcase its rich talent by means of a beautifully planned Satellite Symposium on Low Cost Techniques in Cytology. All praise must go to the co-ordinator ably supported by the speakers, who stole the show and took every one by storm. Our participation not only made an indelible mark on the minds of the big wigs in Cytology the world over, it also boosted our morale and made us realize that we are capable of hosting bigger events under the banner of IAC. Hence plans are already afoot for IAC to bid for a mega international event in Cytology in our own country. Lest I forget, let me place on record the enormous interest evinced by some very enthusiastic members of IAC, who took pains in taking so many of us together to Edinburgh. I think such participation also strengthens our bonds & lessens our differences. I will be ungrateful, if I did not acknowledge the enormous assistance that we all received from Dr Mina Desai & Dr John Smith- the Organisers at the other end.

The IAC also had its share of sorrow in the recent past, having witnessed the untimely demise of one of its very senior members- late Prof(Dr). Subhash Kumari Gupta, who was yet another victim to the scourge of cancer. Words are not enough to express our profound grief at this irreparable loss.

I am afraid, I have to again appeal to all my esteemed friends, particularly the younger Cytologists, to support our journal and also to suggest ways & means of "doing some thing more innovative" by IAC. Let us all meet at Kolkota to make yet another effort to succeed in this direction. Happy deepavali to one & all.

Dear IAC Members,

Greetings

Diwali is scintillating & glittering. A glittering conference is waiting for you in Salt Lake City of Kolkata. I hope by this time, you might have registered & booked your travel & accommodation. The Lamp of knowledge being lit by IAC Team & Organizing committee will enlighten you.

The lamp of knowledge go on living if it lights a new lamp. A person with glow of knowledge shines more if he is part of a knowledge bank. The Growth of a team is more meaningful than the individual achievements.

So be the part of a team.

We are starting new features from this issue & your participation only will keep them alive. I also urge you to send your FEEDBACK- criticism, appreciation or advice- by SMS or Email.

Secretary's Message

Dear friends,

It is altogether a different feeling I am experiencing as I am getting to know the functioning of our academy from the secretary's desk. The daily input of membership forms, preparations of our national conference and associated meetings, in particular the general body meeting, are the landmark events every year and go a long way in the tangible growth of the academy. The pleasure of holding the responsibility of serving a huge academy of expert cytologists has surpassed the honor and prestige associated with this post. Dr. Rajat Mukherjee, Dr. Sabitri Sanyal & Dr. Asitova Mondol have planned an exciting conference at Kolkata and are working against all odds. I request all the members to plan and attend in large numbers. Listening to distinguished speakers, research papers, competitive sessions will be thrilling and enriching. Faculties and post graduates of all medical colleges of India must be busy preparing to deliver their best in this national forum. I wish them all and the organizers my best wishes for success in their efforts. Workshops and CMEs are main attractions of any Conference. And this time we have a feast of one CME and twin workshops pre & postconference respectively. Cytology of bone lesions, Cervical Cytology & Colposcopy and Fluid cytology are fields that require constant knowledge update. Hope we deliver the goods up to your expectations.

OBITUARY

Professor Subhash Kumari Gupta

Professor Subhash Kumari Gupta, Emeritus Professor, and former Head, Department of Cytology and Gynecological Pathology passed away on 1st October at 3.30 p.m. She graduated from Govt. Medical college Amritsar in 1964. She underwent her initial training in PGI as a resident to complete her MD in Pathology and continued to serve the institute as a faculty from 1966 to 2002, an association of nearly five decades. Following her training at the prestigious Karolinska Institute, Sweden, in FNA cytology she returned to India in the early seventies and pioneered the introduction of the technique of fine needle aspiration cytology or FNAC in India. She popularized this technique through several workshops and CMEs across the country and today this is widely used for diagnosing various conditions like tuberculosis and cancer from various sites of the body. She also actively developed the Cervical Cancer Screening program at PGIMER. The department gained recognition as ICMR and WHO as advanced center for Cytology two decades ago. Under her dynamic leadership, the department grew from strength to strength and today it is not only one of the finest in the country but also in the world. She contributed immensely to her field through numerous research publications. She was a teacher par excellence and her numerous students spread across the country and the world is a testimony to this. She was the president of the Indian Academy of Cytologists (1995-97) and the chairperson of the Accreditation and Examinations Committee of the Indian Academy of Cytologists (1995-2002). The External Quality Assurance programme of the Indian Academy of Cytologists was started under her dynamic leadership in the year 2000. She was awarded the 'Lifetime Achievement Award' at the National conference of the Indian Academy of Cytologists at Chandigarh for her contribution in the field of Cytology. Even after her retirement in 2002, she continued to be active and served the Ramakrishna Mission Hospital at Kankhal, Haridwar and the mobile Hospital of Ramakrishna mission Hospital, Chandigarh. Above all, she was a wonderful, loving and caring person. In her death, the country has lost an eminent cytopathologist. We pray God to give her family and all who knew her the strength to bear this loss.

OUR IAC

History : The Indian Academy of Cytologists was founded in the summer of 1970 by a dedicated group of pathologists, gynaecologists and clinicians interested in cytology under the dynamic leadership of Dr. P.N. Wahi, the then Director General of Indian Council of Medical Research. This multi-disciplinary approach was unique, for it allowed medical and paramedical personnel to share their views on a common platform. It found its place on the international map ever since it chose to affiliate with the International Academy of Cytology and its Journal. Over the past 40 years, due to the untiring efforts of its executive committee members, the Academy has grown in strength and stature.

The Objectives of the Academy :

1. To encourage excellence and appreciate efforts put in the research both fundamental and clinical of the relatively new field of cytology.
2. To encourage cooperation among those actively engaged in the practice of clinical cytology
3. To standardize terminology.
